Come Together John Lennon in His Time. The iconic musician and the price he paid for speaking out. An engaging look at one of music's most defiantly political figures, Come Together recreates two decades of rock and rebellion by tracing John Lennon's ever-evolving politics from the formation of the Beatles in 1960 to his assassination in 1980. From modest anti-establishment tweaking and a penchant for "more popular than Jesus" pot-stirring, Lennon grew into an influential voice of the peace ...

The Beatles - Come Together Lyrics | Genius Lyrics

This killer track from Abbey Road got its start as a quickie acoustic song written for Timothy Leary, but once Lennon brought it to the group "Come Together" took on an entirely new life. In spite of the lawsuits and covers that have stemmed from the track it's still one of the all-time great Beatles tracks that sounds as fresh today as it did in 1969.

In 1969, Leary decided to run for Governor of California, and asked John Lennon to write a song for him. "Come Together, Join The Party" was Leary's campaign slogan (a reference to the drug culture he supported) and was the original title of the song. Leary never had much of a campaign, but the slogan gave Lennon the idea for this song.

Music publisher Morris Levy wound up suing John Lennon, the songwriter of "Come Together," over the lines, "Here come old flat-top / He come groovin' up slowly." This line resembles Berry's "Here come a flat-top / He was movin' up with me," which was grounds enough for a suit.

There were plagiarism allegations against John Lennon

The Beatles began recording "Come Together" on 21 July 1969, recording eight takes in Abbey Road's studio three. Three of the takes – four, five, and seven – were incomplete, and take six was selected as the basis of the album version. Take one, with slightly different lyrics and a raw vocal from John Lennon, can be heard on the Anthology 3 album, and take five can be heard on some formats of the 50th anniversary reissue of Abbey Road.

John Lennon wrote "Come Together" for Timothy Leary but ...

"Come Together", the lead song on The Beatles' Abbey Road album, was conceived by John Lennon as a political rallying cry for the writer, psychologist and pro-drugs activist Timothy Leary. It was a funky record – it's one of my favorite Beatle tracks, or, one of my favourite Lennon tracks, let's say that.
